

Steve never names a bear until it has been around for awhile because statistics show that 51 percent of all black bears die before they are 18 months old. Generally named for their physical attributes, the bears listed here are some that Steve interacts with on a regular basis and which are featured in past and upcoming episodes of The Bear Whisperer.